

The new building for Shipley College and the Saltaire Collection is entered from the Victoria Road civic garden. A shared foyer and reception, flexibly used as a community classroom and exhibition space for Saltaire Collection is located on the upper floor. This can accommodate a range of educational and exhibition activities open to the public, and is designed to operate independent of the main college teaching spaces and Saltaire Collection workspace located on the floor level below. It will be programmed with changing exhibitions displaying heritage interpretation materials and items from the Saltaire Collection archives. The upper floor also houses college administration areas and the public toilets, which are accessed externally.
